AZCO Announces Leadership Promotions

APPLETON, Wisconsin — Self-perform industrial construction and prefabrication solutions provider AZCO is announcing a pair of strategic promotions as the Burns & McDonnell subsidiary grows to meet the needs of industrial clients across the United States.

Pete Warning was promoted to vice president. Warning has been with AZCO for 15 years and currently manages the company's mechanical construction business.

Al King was promoted to senior vice president. King is a 15-year employee of AZCO and currently manages the company's project development team. King was also promoted to the AZCO board of directors.

AZCO is executing projects in several markets, including gas generation, battery storage, renewable generation, food and consumer products, pulp and paper, aviation fueling, and oil and gas.

"As we expand, we need a team that is ready to help us to safely, efficiently and successfully execute additional construction and prefabrication projects," says Earle Cianchette, AZCO president and CEO. "With the strengths Pete and Al bring to our leadership team, AZCO is well poised for further success."

AZCO is currently executing several self-perform engineer-procure-construct (EPC) projects with Burns & McDonnell. AZCO got its start in 1949 and is 100% employee-owned.
