Burns & McDonnell Expands Presence in Texas with New Office in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Burns & McDonnell, a 100% employee-owned engineering, architecture, construction, environmental and consulting firm, is expanding its Texas footprint with the opening of a new office in San Antonio. The move supports the firm's long-term commitment to serving clients across the region and meeting the growing demand for critical infrastructure solutions in Central and South Texas.

Located at 45 NE Loop 410, Suite 420, the San Antonio office strengthens the firm's local presence and enhances its ability to deliver integrated services to industries that are key to the region's economy, including electric and gas utilities, aviation, manufacturing and water.

"We're incredibly excited to establish a permanent presence in San Antonio," says Jake Merriman, vice president and branch office manager for San Antonio operations. "This community is growing fast and facing increasingly complex infrastructure needs. Our local team is ready to help solve these challenges by bringing deep technical knowledge and experience, and a commitment to partnership that defines our approach."

Burns & McDonnell has long supported projects in the San Antonio area and throughout South Texas. Establishing a permanent office allows the firm to grow its local team, forge stronger partnerships with area stakeholders and contribute more directly to the region's development.

"Being part of San Antonio means more than just doing business here — it means being invested in the future of the region," Merriman says. "We're looking forward to hiring and growing talent locally, and collaborating closely with our clients to make an impact."

With more than 75 offices across the U.S. and around the world, Burns & McDonnell continues to invest in strategic locations that bring the firm closer to its clients and communities. The San Antonio office adds to the company's strong presence in Texas, which includes major operations in Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston.
